

Run Bug

by Roberto Perez-Franco G

Hey, Buddy. I thought you were going to take the Shuttle. Did you decide to walk?

With this nice weather? No way.

The Shuttle was too full, and it only picked up nine students. Now I am late for a meeting with my research group.

Look at the bright side. At least you will get some exercise.

Whatever.

Have you noticed that on freezing days like this one, you always seem to be walking against the wind?

That's a good point, actually.